

ABSTRACT

A method includes combining at least two separate user information packets into a transmission packet by an information-processing unit, wherein the information-processing unit saves power by eliminating at least one power up cycle and one power down cycle by transmitting the transmission packet.

TO: 42390-42390